

DIVISION OF NAVOTAS CITY

Senior High School

Oral Communication in Context (Quarter 1) First Semester

S.Y. 2021-2022
NAVOTAS CITY PHILIPPINES

GOVERNMENT PROPERTY
NOT FOR SALE

English – Oral Communication Grade 11
Alternative Delivery Mode
First Semester
Second Edition, 2021

Republic Act 8293, section 176 states that: No copyright shall subsist in any work of the Government of the Philippines. However, prior approval of the government agency or office wherein the work is created shall be necessary for exploitation of such work for profit. Such an agency or office may, among other things, impose as a condition the payment of royalties.

Borrowed materials (i.e., songs, stories, poems, pictures, photos, brand names, trademarks, etc.) included in this module are owned by their respective copyright holders. Every effort has been exerted to locate and seek permission to use these materials from their respective copyright owners. The publisher and authors do not represent nor claim ownership over them.

Published by the Department of Education
Secretary: Leonor Magtolis Briones
Undersecretary: Diosdado M. San Antonio

Development Team of the Module

Writers: Christopher Ian N. Sengco, Cecilia S. De Ocampo, Jean Sabocohan Catandijan
Analisa I. Panaligan, Merry Grace V. Manucduc, Aldrin S. Perez and Solitaire H. Cruz

Editor: Solitaire H. Cruz

Reviewers: Marco D. Meduranda

Illustrator:

Layout Artist: Hazel M. Santorce

Management Team: Alejandro G. Ibañez, OIC- Schools Division Superintendent
Isabelle S. Sibayan, OIC- Asst. Schools Division Superintendent
Loida O. Balasa, Chief, Curriculum Implementation Division
Marco D. Meduranda, EPS in English
Grace R. Nieves, EPS In Charge of LRMS
Lorena J. Mutas, ADM Coordinator
Vergel Junior C. Eusebio, PDO II LRMS

Inilimbag sa Pilipinas ng _____

Department of Education – Navotas City

Office Address: BES Compound M. Naval St. Sipac-Almacen Navotas City

Telefax: 02-8332-77-64

E-mail Address: Navotas.city@deped.gov.ph

Table of Contents

QUARTER 1

What I Know	1
Module 1.....	4
Module 2.....	15
Module 3.....	24
Module 4.....	31
Assessment.....	40
Answer Key	43
References	45

QUARTER 2

What I Know	48
Module 5.....	51
Module 6.....	65
Module 7.....	78
Assessment.....	91
Answer Key	94
References	96

What I Know

Directions: Multiple Choice. Choose the best answer for each question. Write the letter of your answer on a separate sheet.

1. It is a process by which information is exchanged between individuals through a common system of symbols, signs, or and behavior.
 - a. communication
 - b. process
 - c. nature
 - d. language
2. The fundamental idea that the sender wants to communicate. It is a sign that stimulates the response of recipient.
 - a. medium
 - b. message
 - c. feedback
 - d. sender
3. The most important component of communication business. It completes the loop of communication.
 - a. receiver
 - b. feedback
 - c. context
 - d. message
4. It is a simple one way communication model. The message flows in straight line from sender to the receiver.
 - a. Transactional
 - b. Linear
 - c. Interactive
 - d. Spatial
5. These are conceptual models that explain the communication process.
 - a. Nature of communication
 - b. Functions of communication
 - c. Process of communication
 - d. Models of communication

6. Which model of communication is mostly used for new media like internet?
- Transactional
 - Interactive
 - Linear
 - Spatial
7. Which model of communication is mostly used for interpersonal communication?
- Transactional
 - Interactive
 - Linear
 - Spatial

8. Which of these objects resembles the linear model of communication?

9. Which of the following is an example of Interactive model of communication?

- State of the Nation Address
- Speech Choir
- Face-to-face interview
- Replying through text messaging

10. Which communication model relates communication with social reality, cultural up-bringing and relational context?

- Transactional
- Linear
- Interactive
- Social

11. This type of noise or barrier that refers to anything related to the meaning of words that distorts or masks a message a message and confuses the listener.

- | | |
|---------------------|--------------------------|
| a. Physical Barrier | c. Physiological Barrier |
| b. Semantic Barrier | d. Psychological Barrier |

12. This type of noise or barrier originates from the emotional state.

- | | |
|---------------------|--------------------------|
| a. Physical Barrier | c. Physiological Barrier |
| b. Semantic Barrier | d. Psychological Barrier |

13. This is the type of noise or barrier that originates from bodily state.
- a. Physical Barrier
 - b. Semantic Barrier
 - c. Physiological Barrier
 - d. Psychological Barrier
14. What is the function of communication where the speaker's purpose is to persuade another person to change his or her opinion, attitude or behavior?
- a. Information
 - b. Motivation
 - c. Regulation or Control
 - d. Emotional Expression
15. What function of communication is used when the speaker wants to make others aware of certain data, concepts and processes and knowledge that may be useful to them.
- a. Information
 - b. Motivation
 - c. Regulation or Control
 - d. Emotional Expression

MODULE 1

What I Need to Know

This module was designed and written with you in mind. It is here to help you understand the nature, process and functions of communication. The scope of this module permits it to be used in many different learning situations. The language used recognizes the diverse vocabulary level of students. The lessons are arranged to follow the standard sequence of the course. But the order in which you read them can be changed to correspond with the textbook you are now using.

After going through this module, you are expected to:

1. define communication
2. explain the nature of communication;
3. explain the process of communication;
4. explain the functions of communication;
5. identify the elements of communication process;
6. enumerate the functions of communication; and
7. identify functions of communication

Lesson 1

The Nature, Process and Functions of Communication

Communication is a process of sharing and conveying messages or information from one person to another within and across channels, contexts, media, and cultures (McCornack, 2014). There is a wide variety of contexts and situations in which communication can be manifested; it can be a face-to-face interaction, a phone conversation, a group discussion, a meeting or interview, a letter correspondence, a class recitation, and many others.

What is It

This lesson provides information about the the nature, process and functions of communication.

FACT or BLUFF

Directions: Write FACT if the statement is correct, write BLUFF if the statement is incorrect. Write your answer on a separate sheet.

- _____ 1. Communication occurs between two or more people (the sender and the receiver) and can be expressed through written or spoken words (verbal communication), actions (nonverbal) or both spoken words or nonverbal actions at the same time.
- _____ 2. Message is the medium or the means, such as personal or non-personal, verbal or nonverbal, in which the encoded message is conveyed.
- _____ 3. One advantage of effective communication is you will have a stronger relationship with other people.
- _____ 4. Social interaction function of communication is used to motivate or to encourage people to live better.
- _____ 5. Communication is a one-way process involving an exchange of ideas.

What is the nature and process of communication?

According to Cliff Notes (2014), the aim of communication is to deliver information – and the understanding of that information – from one person or group to another person or group.

Communication is a process. It occurs between two or more people (the sender and the receiver) and can be expressed through written or spoken words (verbal communication), actions (nonverbal) or both spoken words or nonverbal actions at the same time.

The Communication Process

This communication process is divided into three basic components: A sender transmits a message through a channel to the receiver. The sender first develops an idea, which is composed into a message and then transmitted to the other party, who interprets the message and receives meaning. Information theorist have added somewhat more complicated language. Developing a message is known as encoding, interpreting the message is referred to as decoding.

The Elements of Communication

1. Speaker – the source of information.
2. Message - the information, ideas, or thoughts conveyed by the speaker in words or in actions.
3. Encoding - the process of converting the message into words, actions, or other forms that the speaker understands.
4. Channel - the medium or the means, such as personal or non-personal, verbal or nonverbal, in which the encoded message is conveyed. Examples are our senses, letters, television, radio and technological advancement such as social media and the likes.
5. Decoding – the process of interpreting the encoded message of the speaker by the receiver.
6. Receiver - the recipient of the message, or someone who decodes the message.
7. Feedback – is the most important component of communication in business. The reactions, responses, or information provided by the receiver. Communication is said to be effective only when it receives some feedback. Feedback, actually, completes the loop of communication.
8. Context – the environment where communication takes place.
9. Barrier – The factors that affect the flow of communication. Example are noise, use of jargons, physical condition, environment, and lack of knowledge about the technological advancement.

Importance of Effective Communication

According to the American Management Association, effective communication is an essential element of achievement in every company, leader, manager, staff, and employee. An organization whose people communicate effectively experiences fewer misunderstandings that create friction between people, waste of time, and cause mistakes. The strategy of these enterprise is clear to all, and each person understands how his or her work contributes to that strategy. Employees listen to customers and, in turn, are clear and persuasive in describing their company's products and services.

For Stennes (2013), to effectively communicate a complex idea, however, requires skill beyond elementary conversation. There are two golden rules to remember and follow.

Golden Rule no. 1: Organize thoughts in mind before sharing them with others.

One idea often prompts a torrent of others. In order to share your ideas, you must first shape them coherently. Organization is important, because it creates a pattern for your listener, allowing him or her to grasp the larger picture intuitively. This allows the listener to focus on the details of your message, without struggling to understand how you went from Point A to Point B.

Golden Rule no. 2: Communication is Collaborative, not Competitive.

Thrusting one's idea on others mars the beauty and integrity of conversation. Communication is in some ways like a dance; each partners plays off the other, basing his or her steps on the other person's while simultaneously maintaining a certain amount of individuality.

Communication is a two-way process involving an exchange of ideas. If you try to make it one-way, you prevent this exchange and will eventually frustrate the other person. You may also frustrate yourself, if you read the other person's lack of verbosity as disinterest in the conversation, rather than an inability to get a word in. The hallmark of effective communication is the coherent verbal projection of your ideas, so that you listener receives the message you intend to send. By observing these two rules, you will reduce miscommunication and misunderstanding.

Advantages of Effective Communication

The truth is that while almost everyone already knows how to communicate, learning a few simple principles that can be applied immediately will make one an effective communicator and give you a huge advantage in today's ultra- competitive business world. Here are some advantages of effective communication.

1. Conflict is reduced. Most conflict is the result of misunderstood communication. When you become an effective communicator, you can resolve conflict and create harmony by bridging the communication gaps that create conflict. You can even use your skill to mediate conflict between other people.
2. Get more of what you want out of life. When you learn to communicate effectively in ways that people instinctively understand, they will be delighted to help you and provide you with the resources that you need to achieve your goals and dreams.
3. Have stronger relationships. Effective communication builds strong business and personal relationships because you learn to give it to them. Learn to communicate thoughts and emotion in ways that they instinctively understand at an unconscious level.
4. Help people to adopt your ideas. Effective communication is not about "you" and getting what you want... it is about discovering what other people want and need and then adapting your presentation to match their needs.
5. People will like you better. Using effective communication will help one to understand other people better and when you understand them, you will relate to them better.

The Functions of Communication

Basically, there are five functions of communication. These are control, social interaction, motivation, emotional expression, and information dissemination.

Regulation/ Control	Social Interaction	Motivation	Information dissemination	Emotional Expression
Used to control one's behaviour. examples: 1. "Take your medicine 3 times a day." (doctors' prescription) 2. "Wash the dishes now, or else I won't allow you to go to the party later." (parents' instruction) 3. "Move on. He doesn't love you anymore" (friends giving advice on what to do)	Used to produce social relationships; used to develop bonds, intimacy, relations;; used to express preferences, desires, needs, wants, decisions, goals, and strengths; used for giving and getting information examples: 1. "Will you marry me?" (marriage proposal) 2. "Would you like some coffee, tea or milk?" (invitation)	Used to motivate or to encourage people to live better. examples: 1. That's quite an improvement. 2. Keep working on it, you're almost there! 3. Great idea! 4. You're amazing! 5. Nothing can stop you now.	Used to convey information example: "Did you know that there's a secret apartment at the top of the Eiffel tower?"	Used to facilitate people's expression of their feelings and emotions. examples: 1. "I'm so glad that you came into my life." (appreciation) 2. "I like you so much!" (appreciation) 3. "I need you in my life." (expressing a need) 4. "We pray for those who suffered a broken heart from their crush." (expressing prayers)

What's More

Activity 1

Directions: Complete the semantic web below with word or group of words relevant to communication. Write your answer on a separate sheet of paper.

Activity 2

Directions: Identify the function of communication in each of the following situations. Write the letter of your answer on a separate sheet of paper.

FUNCTIONS OF COMMUNICATION

- a. Regulation/ Control
- b. Social Interaction
- c. Motivation
- d. Information Dissemination
- e. Emotional Expression

SITUATIONS

- ____ 1. The teacher reads and discusses classroom policies to her students.
- ____ 2. Ross greets Rachel; then, they start talking about their plans for the holidays.
- ____ 3. Phoebe shares her insights on how to live peacefully despite a complicated life.
- ____ 4. Monica shares her personal frustrations with Chandler.
- ____ 5. The geometry teacher lectures about mathematical concepts.

Activity 3

Directions: Answer the following questions and explain your answer.

- 1. What is communication?
- 2. What is the aim of communication?
- 3. What are the components of communication?
- 4. Why feedback is the most important component of communication in business?
- 5. In what situation/s you see the need of effective communication?

What I Can Do

Activity 1

Directions: Select a person at your home for observation. Watch your 'subject' over a period of 2 days and see if you can classify his communication style. Write verbal cues and identify the function for each.

Subject:

Date and Time observed:

MESSAGE	COMMUNICATION FUNCTIONS

Activity 2

Directions: Fill in the table of the PROS and CONS of communication using Social Media as a channel of communication.

PROS	CONS

Activity 3

Directions: Create your own comic strips. Show daily conversations that you experience at home. Choose one template from the examples below.

Name: _____ Date: _____

Comic Strip Story

Title: _____ Author: _____

Setting: _____ Characters: _____

MODULE 2

What I Need to Know

This module was designed and written with you in mind. It is here to help you understand the various models of communication. The scope of this module permits it to be used in many different learning situations. The language used recognizes the diverse vocabulary level of students. The lessons are arranged to follow the standard sequence of the course. But the order in which you read them can be changed to correspond with the textbook you are now using.

After going through this module, you are expected to:

1. identify the different types of communication models;
2. explain the process of communication models; and
3. differentiate the various models of communication from one another

Lesson

2

The Models of Communication

Models of communication are conceptual models used to explain the communication process (human that is). The first major model for communication was developed in 1948 by Claude Shannon and published with an introduction by Warren Weaver for Bell Laboratories. Following the basic concept, communication is the process of sending and receiving messages or transferring information from one part (sender) to another (receiver).

What is It

Directions: Find the word for each description below. Write your answers on the provided spaces.

SEARCH COMMunication

- _____ 1. The source of information
- _____ 2. The information, ideas, or thoughts conveyed by the speaker in words or in actions
- _____ 3. The process of converting the message into words, actions, or other forms that the speaker understands
- _____ 4. The medium or the means of communication
- _____ 5. The process of interpreting the message
- _____ 6. The recipient of the message
- _____ 7. The reactions, responses, or information provided by the receiver
- _____ 8. The environment where communication takes place
- _____ 9. The factors that affect the flow of communication

S	P	E	A	K	I	N	G	E	R	I	A	R	E	V	I	E	C	E	R	H
M	E	S	S	A	G	E	Y	U	I	N	G	F	D	S	K	L	O	L	P	E
A	C	B	C	X	G	N	I	D	O	C	N	E	E	T	Y	U	P	V	A	A
O	P	H	D	E	C	O	D	I	N	G	S	E	C	R	R	R	B	U	A	R
B	N	N	A	A	S	D	F	B	C	H	Y	D	I	O	E	P	Y	A	X	I
Y	I	O	O	N	L	R	E	I	R	R	A	B	E	A	R	D	A	R	T	N
C	O	V	I	D	N	M	O	D	E	L	H	A	T	E	X	T	N	S	O	G
H	O	T	E	L	I	E	C	A	T	V	A	C	T	I	O	N	S	E	P	A
C	O	N	T	E	X	T	L	D	O	G	Y	K	N	I	N	O	Y	M	S	A

Types of Communication Model

There are three general types of communication models in which all other communication models are mostly categorized.

1. Linear Model of Communication

Linear model of communication is a simple one way communication model. The message flows in a straight line from sender to the receiver. There is no concept of feedback. The only task that a receiver does here is to receive the message. Different models that follow linear model of communication are:

- Lasswell's Model
- Aristotle's Model
- Shannon Weaver Model
- Berlo's S-M-C-R Model

Linear model is applied in mass communication like television, radio, etc. This model is not applicable in general human communication as general human communication has to have feedback and responses.

2. Transactional Model of Communication

Transactional model is the process of continuous change and transformation where every component is changing such as the people, their environments and the medium used. In transactional model, senders and receivers both are known as communicators and both play equally important role in communication. Transactional model relates communication with social reality, cultural up-bringing and relational context (relationships). Non-verbal feedback like gestures, body language, is also considered as feedback in this model. Different models that follow transactional model of communication are:

- Barnlund's Transactional Model
- Helical Model
- Becker's Mosaic Model

The transactional model is the most general model of communication. Everyday talk and interactions are also a form of transactional model of communication.

3. Interactive Model of Communication

Interactive model or convergence model is similar to transactional model as they are both two way communication model. But, interactive model is mostly used for new media like internet. Here, people can respond to any mass communications like videos, news, etc. People can exchange their views and ideas. Different models that follow interactive model of communication are:

- Schramm's Interactive Model

Interactive Model Examples

Internet can be taken as the best way of interactive communication as receiver can give feedback even in newspapers and books. Internet has increased the opportunity of interactive communication and it is still evolving.

Human-computer interaction is also now considered as interactive communication as the model is circular where the senders interchange every time. Social media, interactive marketing and user generated contents, ATM machines, online shopping, chat rooms, etc. are other examples of interactive communication model.

TYPES OF COMMUNICATON MODELS
KEY FEATURES	LINEAR	TRANSACTIONAL	INTERACTIVE

	One way communication	Two way communication	Two way communication
	Used for mass communication	Everyday talk (conversation)	Used for new communications like internet
	Senders send message and receivers only receive	Senders and receivers interchange roles	Concept of field of experience
	No concept of noise	Context of environment and noise	Known as convergence model
	No feedback	Simultaneous feedback Feedback is taken as a new message	Communication becomes linear if receiver does not respond

What's More

Activity 1

Directions: Given the table, segregate the words that describe the models of communication. Place each word that falls under each .One word can be placed under categories.

one way communication provides feedback

Schramm's Interactive Model Known as convergence model

speaker only speaks Barnlund's Transactional Model continuous and changing No concept of noise

two way communication

no feedback

video conference

Aristotle's Model

simultaneous feedback

LINEAR	TRANSACTIONAL	INTERACTIVE
1.	1.	1.
2.	2.	2.
3.	3.	3.
4.	4.	4.

Activity 2

Picture Analysis

Directions: Identify the following pictures if it is Linear, Transactional or Interactive model of communication.

1. _____

2. _____

4. _____

(Sources of illustrations are placed at the reference section)

4. _____

5. _____

Activity 3

Directions: Answer the following questions.

1. Why is Linear model of communication considered a one-way communication model?
2. What are some examples of Interactive model of communication in real life situation?
3. Cite advantages and disadvantages of Interactive model of communication.
4. What are the similarities of Transactional and Interactive model of communication?
5. Cite advantages and disadvantages of Linear model of communication.

What I Can Do

Activity 1

PICTURE COLLAGE

Directions: Create a picture collage showing different types of communication models.

Example

(Sources of illustrations are placed at the reference section)

Activity 2

NEW MODEL OF COMMUNICATION

Directions: Review the lesson about Models of Communication. You will create your model of communication. Your invented model of communication will be named after your name. Since you create/invent the new model of communication, you will have a discussion in front of the Oral Communication students.

Inventor
Name of the new model:
Representation (illustration, diagram or graph
Explanation:

Activity 3

MAKING A RULE

Directions: You are the president of the class and you establish a good and healthy relationship with your classmates. You want your section to have an established rules that should be followed to avoid miscommunication or conflict. Write relevant rules that are applicable to your section.

RULES IF YOU ARE THE SENDER. 	RULES IF YOU ARE THE RECEIVER.
1.	1.
2.	2.
3.	3.
4.	4.
5.	5.
6.	6.
7.	7.
8.	8.
9.	9.
10.	10.

MODULE 3

What I Need to Know

This module was designed and written with you in mind. It is here to help you understand the Barriers of Communication. The scope of this module permits it to be used in many different learning situations. The language used recognizes the diverse vocabulary level of students. The lessons are arranged to follow the standard sequence of the course. But the order in which you read them can be changed to correspond with the textbook you are now using.

After going through this module, you are expected to:

1. Define Noise/Barrier
1. Identify the different types of Communication Noise/Barrier;
2. Explain why there is a breakdown in communication;
3. Apply strategies in overcoming communication breakdowns

Lesson 3

Communication Breakdown and Noise

Have you witnessed people having a debate or argue of something or of someone? Have you seen someone cry or feeling sad because of being misunderstood?

Have you experienced listening to your teacher's lecture and you did not understand anything because your classmates are noisy?

When do breakdowns of communications occur? When does communication becomes a failure?

PICTURE TALK: Describe what is happening in pictures 1, 2 and 3. Is miscommunication present in each picture? Why? Explain.

1	2	3

What is It

Breakdowns occur in the communication process from time to time. A breakdown in communication occurs when the message or the feedback is not sent or received properly—at least in the way that the sender intends—or is not received by the concerned party altogether.

Many of the causes of communication breakdown can be classified as noise. Noise is the technical term used to refer to all the possible barriers to effective communication. Noise may be physical, psychological, physiological or semantic.

1. Physical Noise comes from the environment (e.g., extraneous noises; such as the barking of the dogs, construction activity and etc.)

2. Psychological Noise originates from the emotional state, mental state and psychological makeup of a person (e.g., depression, anger, suspicions, and etc.)
3. Physiological Noise are bodily conditions that compromise the ability of a person to send or receive messages (e.g., hunger, stomach ache, and etc.)
4. Semantic Noise refers to anything related to the meaning of words that distorts or masks a message and confuses the listener (e.g., speaker's use of foreign language, a listener's limited vocabulary, and etc.)

The Dimensions of Communication

Communication breakdown or Miscommunication can lead to a total cessation of interaction. We see people stop talking to each other, sometimes until the end of their lives. Leaders of some countries that do not have friendly relations or have stopped talking to each other sometimes end up going to war against each other.

Verbal/Nonverbal Dimensions

This encompasses the use of language, the words chosen (Verbal Dimension) and the facial expressions, and the gestures and bodily movement used (Nonverbal Dimension). Verbal and nonverbal dimensions must be used together to clearly impart the message. A misunderstanding may happen when words contradict actions. He/she may say "yes" but the facial expression says "no": To illustrate further, a politician may say that he is a man of the people, but then refuses to shake hands with them. In this dimension, it is important that what is shown or done agrees with what is said. Otherwise, the Listener will be confused and miscommunication will occur.

Oral/Written Dimensions

These two mean spoken communication (Oral Dimension) and the transcription of thoughts and ideas (Written Dimension). While the Verbal Dimension talks of the use of language and the choice of words to convey a written Message, the Oral Dimension imparts the Message following the Principles of Delivery. The Written Dimension takes care of putting down the words while the Oral Dimension takes care of delivering those words (although that may not necessarily happen).

Formal/Informal Dimensions

These speak of the factors that may or may not highlight traditional and conventional communication. The Formal Dimension usually means the meticulous observation of appropriateness in dress, language, and setting, while the Informal Dimension is the opposite. That is, it uses a more casual approach with no regard for the formalities.

Intentional/Unintentional Dimensions

These rely on the fact that Messages always have a Purpose. There is an intention when people communicate with others. In fact, this intention is why we want to communicate in the first place. One wants to say something, but what one may intend may not be the actual result. Sometimes people laugh at something that was said, even if the Speaker meant it to be taken seriously. It must be remembered that every Message has an unintended meaning. In fact, the Speaker may not even be aware of it. The Speaker only finds out after, when the Listener reacts by saying that the Speaker has been discourteous, dishonest, or has hurt the Listener's feelings; or when the Listener claps or laughs, when the Speaker did not expect that reaction.

What's More

Activity 1

DIRECTIONS:

Recall a misunderstanding, a quarrel, or a fight between you and another person (friend, sibling, parent, or a relative). Analyze why it happened and what caused it by looking at the Dimension(s) of Communication that was (were) not properly understood. Then recall how the problem was resolved. Record your narration.

Activity 2

Answer the questions below derive from what you have learned from the Types of Communication Barriers or Noise and The Dimensions of Communication.

1. What is a Communication process and how it is connected to Communication breakdown?
2. What is a communication breakdown?
3. What causes communication breakdown?

4. What problems happen when there are communication breakdown?
5. How do you deal with a communication breakdown?
6. What is the main goal of communication?

Activity 3

What three things usually make it difficult for you to understand a lesson?
List down your answers and classify them according to the types of noise.
Then, find ways or solutions to overcome each noise mentioned. Follow the suggested format.

Common Types of Noise that Affect Lesson Comprehension		Ways to Overcome Noise
Noise	Type
2.
3.
4.

Activity 4

Directions: Write on the blank the type of each noise listed from the word pool below.

No.	Noise	Type
1.	Headache
2.	Noise from the busy construction site
3.	Missing someone
4.	Disliking the speaker
5.	Noise from moving vehicles
6.	Speaker's ambiguous words
7.	Excited to do something else
8.	Grumbling of the stomach
9.	Poor ventilation in the venue
10.	Unclear pronunciation of words

Physical Noise

Semantic Noise

Psychological Noise

Physiological Noise

Activity 5

INFOGRAPHIC

Directions: Make an infographic about that barriers of communication. Use the sample pattern below and use your own picture.

MODULE 4

What I Need to Know

This module was designed and written with you in mind. It is here to help you understand the effectiveness of some oral communication activities. The scope of this module permits it to be used in many different learning situations. The language used recognizes the diverse vocabulary level of students. The lessons are arranged to follow the standard sequence of the course. But the order in which you read them can be changed to correspond with the textbook you are now using.

After going through this module, you are expected to:

1. Identify the different types of oral communication activities;
2. Explain the function of the oral communication activities; and
3. Evaluate the effectiveness of oral communication activities.

Lesson 4

Functions and Types of Oral Communication Activities

Communication is a complex process yet despite of its complexity, people continue to engage in oral communication for specific purposes and functions. However, there are certain factors that breakdown the follow of communication which fail the purpose of such communication.

Directions: Study the situations below. Identify what barriers of communication is shown and explain how such barrier affected the purpose of the communication. Write your answer on a separate sheet of paper.

shutterstock.com • 284925971

What is It

Directions: Your teacher will be conducting an online class on literature using the platform Zoom due to the Covid 19 pandemic. Evaluate how effective is the said oral communication activity by accomplishing the given graphic organizer. Write your answer on a separate sheet of paper.

EFFECTIVENESS OF ON LINE CLASS

Evaluation:

Evaluation:

Evaluation:

Types of Oral Distance Communication

Video conferencing – It is a live, visual connection between two or more people residing in separate locations for the purpose of communication. At its simplest, video conferencing provides transmission of static images and text between two locations. At its most sophisticated, it provides transmission of full-motion video images and high-quality audio between multiple locations.

Video Conferencing Modes

There are two main video conferencing modes; the first one is point-to-point video calls and multipoint video conferencing. Point-to-point video call features a video session between two users, while multipoint or group video conferencing features video meetings with more than two users. Multipoint conferencing mode includes several subtypes depending on your needs, the number of participants and active speakers participating in the meeting.

Podcast- It is an episodic series of spoken word digital audio files that a user can download to a personal device for easy listening.

It can be a series of spoken word, audio episodes, all focused on a particular topic or theme, like cycling or start-ups.

A podcast series usually features one or more recurring hosts engaged in a discussion about a particular topic or current event. Discussion and content within a podcast can range from carefully scripted to totally improvised. Podcasts combine elaborate and artistic sound production with thematic concerns ranging from scientific research to slice-of-life journalism.

Webinar

A webinar is an online meeting or presentation held via the internet in real-time. To put it simply, it is an online event, which connects individuals with viewers across the world.

Advantages of Webinars

Webinars are convenient for both presenters and attendees. This is why the format is becoming more and more popular every year.

Webinars make holding conferences and meetings possible at any time and place. Anyone can participate in a webinar without leaving work or just while staying at home, on a business trip or vacation.

Functions of Communication

1. Regulation/Control

As a function of communication, it means being able to use language, gestures and emotions to manage individual or group activities such as a parent a child not to misbehave or a policeman directing pedestrians to cross on the pedestrian walk.

2. Social Interaction

This is the most familiar and primary reason why people communicate. It allows people to be connected with one another like family members who interact with one another or friends who what to get together to interact and enjoy each other's company.

3. Motivation

The speaker's purpose is to persuade another person to change his or her opinion, attitude or behavior.

4. Information

This function is used when the speaker wants to make others aware of certain data, concepts, processes, and knowledge that may be useful to them.

5. Emotional Expression

The speaker appeals to the listener's feelings and emotions to encourage him/her to act in a particular direction. Receiving messages that include pictures of the devastation brought about by a typhoon such as Yolanda or photos of children dying or crying because of hunger, the receiver of the message cannot help but be moved to do something such as donate money, clothes food and water or even volunteer to help build new houses for the victims.

What's More

Activity 1

Directions: Identify what function of communication is shown in the given oral communication activities. Evaluate how effective is the said activity in the speakers purpose. Write your answer on a separate sheet of paper.

Activity 2

Directions: Answer the following questions on a separate sheet of paper.

1. What function is most commonly shown in oral communication activities?
2. What are the other oral communication activities which are not discussed? Explain how effective are they in delivering the speaker's purpose?
3. What will happen if the purpose of the communication is not achieved in an activity? Explain.
4. How important are the functions of oral communication in a person's daily life?
5. Cite an instance wherein an oral communication activity became significant in bringing changes in the community. Explain.

Activity 3

Directions: Create a short vlog showing how an oral communication activity became effective in any of the following situations. Choose one from the given situation below. Post your output in your Facebook account.

- ✚ How the family members spend the quarantine period.
- ✚ How everyone gets connected with their friends and love ones during lockdown.
- ✚ How learning continues to take place without face to face discussion.

Activity 4

Directions: Identify what function of communication is shown in the following scenario. Write your answer on a separate sheet of paper.

1. Asking the janitor where the comfort room is.
2. The girl discussing what happened at the party they attended last night.
3. The office manager telling the clerk to retype the contract.
4. Convincing friends to go to mall after school to watch a movie.
5. Listening to the news about the latest case of infected of Covid 19.
6. Photos of children dying because of hunger.
7. A student asks his/her parents to stop teasing him/her about having a crush in school.
8. The teacher looks sharply at the noisy students.
9. At the mention of "Fire", the office manager directs all employees to the nearest fire exit.
10. Conducting a video call to a friend who has been stranded in other

Activity 5

Directions: Write down common scenarios in daily life where an oral communication activity is involved or used. Identify how effective is the activity in achieving the purpose of the speaker. Write your answer on a separate sheet of paper.

Scenario 1

- Function and Effects

Scenario 2

- Function and Effects

Scenario 3

- Function and Effects

Activity 6

Directions: Read carefully the sentences below. Identify the function used in each sentence.

motivation information emotional expression regulation/control social interaction
Sentence	Function of Communication
1. Parents' Instruction to their child "Wash the dishes now, or else I won't allow you to go to the party later."
2. Appreciation "I'm so glad that you came into my life." "I like you so much!"
3. "Did you know that there's a secret apartment at the top of the Eiffel tower?"
4. Doctors' Prescription "Take your medicine 3 times a day."
5. My dear students I encourage all of you to finish your education even if it difficult because of pandemic.
6. Invitation "Would you like some coffee, tea, or chocolate?"
7. The advent of K12 has offered different opportunities to all learners.
8. Expressing one's ambition "I want to finish up my studies with good grades to be accepted in a good university."
9. Expressing prayers "We pray for those who suffered in Afghanistan."
10. My dear parents let us all dream, pray and work for the future of our children.

ASSESSMENT

Directions: Multiple Choice. Choose the best answer for each question. Write the letter of your answer on a separate sheet.

1. It is a process by which information is exchanged between individuals through a common system of symbols, signs, or and behavior.
 - a. communication
 - b. process
 - c. nature
 - d. language
2. The fundamental idea that the sender wants to communicate. It is a sign that stimulates the response of recipient.
 - a. medium
 - b. message
 - c. feedback
 - d. sender
3. The most important component of communication business. It completes the loop of communication.
 - a. receiver
 - b. feedback
 - c. context
 - d. message
4. It is a simple one way communication model. The message flows in straight line from sender to the receiver.
 - a. Transactional
 - b. Linear
 - c. Interactive
 - d. Spatial
5. These are conceptual models that explain the communication process.
 - a. Nature of communication
 - b. Functions of communication
 - c. Process of communication
 - d. Models of communication
6. Which model of communication is mostly used for new media like internet?
 - a. Transactional
 - b. Interactive
 - c. Linear
 - d. Spatial

7. Which model of communication is mostly used for interpersonal communication?
- Transactional
 - Interactive
 - Linear
 - Spatial

8. Which of these objects resembles the linear model of communication?

9. Which of the following is an example of Interactive model of communication?

- State of the Nation Address
- Speech Choir
- Face-to-face interview
- Replying through text messaging

10. Which communication model relates communication with social reality, cultural up-bringing and relational context?

- Transactional
- Linear
- Interactive
- Social

11. This type of noise or barrier that refers to anything related to the meaning of words that distorts or masks a message a message and confuses the listener.

- | | |
|---------------------|--------------------------|
| a. Physical Barrier | c. Physiological Barrier |
| b. Semantic Barrier | d. Psychological Barrier |

12. This type of noise or barrier originates from the emotional state.

- | | |
|---------------------|--------------------------|
| a. Physical Barrier | c. Physiological Barrier |
| b. Semantic Barrier | d. Psychological Barrier |

13. This is the type of noise or barrier that originates from bodily state.

- | | |
|---------------------|--------------------------|
| a. Physical Barrier | c. Physiological Barrier |
| b. Semantic Barrier | d. Psychological Barrier |

14. What is the function of communication where the speaker's purpose to persuade another person to change his or her opinion, attitude or behavior?
- | | |
|----------------|--------------------------|
| c. Information | c. Regulation or Control |
| d. Motivation | d. Emotional Expression |
15. What function of communication is used when the speaker wants to make others aware of certain data, concepts and processes and knowledge that may be useful to them.
- | | |
|----------------|--------------------------|
| c. Information | c. Regulation or Control |
| d. Motivation | d. Emotional Expression |

Answer Key

What I Know

- | | | |
|-----|---|-------|
| 1. | A | 11. B |
| 2. | B | 12. D |
| 3. | B | 13. C |
| 4. | B | 14. B |
| 5. | D | 15. A |
| 6. | B | |
| 7. | B | |
| 8. | A | |
| 9. | D | |
| 10. | A | |

Module 1

- | | |
|----|-------|
| 5. | BLUFF |
| 4. | FACT |
| 3. | FACT |
| 2. | BLUFF |
| 1. | FACT |

What is it

ACTIVITY 2

- 1.A/D
2. B
3. B
4. E
- 5.D

Module 2

Module 3

Activity 2

1. Interactive
2. Linear
3. Transactional
4. Linear
5. Interactive

1. Schramm's Interactive Model
2. Two way communication
3. Video conference
4. Provides feedback
5. Known as convergence Model

Activity 1

- Linear Model
 1. One way
 2. Speaker only speaks
 3. No feedback
 4. Aristotle's Model
 5. No Concept of Noise
- Transactional Model
 1. Continuous and Changing
 2. Two way communication
 3. Simultaneous Feedback
 4. Provides feedback
 5. Barnlund's Transactional Model

1. Physiological

2. Physical

3. Psychological

4. Psychological

5. Physical

6. Semantic

7. Psychological

cal

cal

cal

cal

cal

cal

cal

ACTIVITY 4

Module 4

1. Information

2. Social Interaction

3. Regulation/Control

4. Motivation

5. Information

6. Emotional Expression

7. Regulation/ Control

8. Regulation/Control

9. Regulation/Control

10. Social Interaction/Emotional Expression

ASSESSMENT

1.	A	11. B
2.	B	12. D
3.	B	13. C
4.	B	14. B
5.	D	15. A
6.	B
7.	B
8.	A
9.	D
10.	A

References

Module 1

(2015) "Speak Up!" jimczyville Publications., pp. 1-5

oralcom.wordpress.com/2016/10/14/functions-of-communication/

<https://elcomblus.com/nature-process-communication/>

Module 2

Models of Communication. (n.d.). Retrieved June 12, 2020, from <https://www.businessstopia.net/communication>

Www.facebook.com/elcomblusdotcom/. (2020, February 24). Learning Plan:
The Nature and Process of Communication. Retrieved June 12, 2020, from <https://elcomblus.com/nature-process-communication/>

Models of communication. (2020, May 26). Retrieved June 12, 2020, from https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Models_of_communication

The Song of Maria Clara by Jose Rizal. (n.d.). Retrieved July 29, 2020 from <https://allpoetry.com/The-Song-of-Maria-Clara>

Module 3

Textbook Oral Communication in Context by Philippe John Frenillo Sipacio and Anne Richie Garcia Balgos

DIWA Senior High School Series Oral Communication in Context
Author: Marilou Santos-Syjueco

<http://cte.sfasu.edu/wp-content/uploads/2012/04/The-Communication-Process.pdf>

<https://elcomblus.com/nature-process-communication/>

Module 4

Print Sources

Flores, R. (2016). Oral communication in context. Rex Bookstore, Inc.

On line Sources

Rouse, Margaret. June 22, 2016

<https://searchunifiedcommunications.techtarget.com/definition/video-conference>. Accessed on June 14, 2020.

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Podcast>. Accessed on June 14, 2020.

Alchser, Daniela. April 21, 2020. What Is a webinar? How to engage and educate your audience. <https://learn.g2.com/what-is-a-webinar>. Accessed on June 14, 2020.

Senior High School

Oral Communication in Context (Quarter 2) First Semester

S.Y. 2021-2022
NAVOTAS CITY PHILIPPINES

GOVERNMENT PROPERTY
NOT FOR SALE

What I Know

Directions: Multiple Choice. Choose the best answer for each question. Write the letter of your answer on a separate sheet.

Who are the people that you often communicate with? Your friends? Loved one? Neighbors? or yourself? Yes, it is one of the decisions that we make every day – to choose who are the people that we will talk to.

Let us find out how are you going to categorize those people. Choose your answer from the word pool below .

1. What type of speech context refers to communication that requires you to deliver or send the message before or in front of a group?
2. It refers to communication that centers on one person where the speaker acts both as sender and receiver of message?
3. What type of speech context refers to communication that takes place through television, radio, newspaper, magazines, books, billboards, internet and other types of media?
4. What type of speech context refers to communication between and other person?
5. Which type of INTERPERSONAL context refers to communication that involves at least three but not more than twelve people engaging in a face-to-face interaction?

Public Communication

Interpersonal Communication

Intrapersonal Communication

Mass Communication

Dyad

Small Group

Directions: Identify the Type of Speech Style appropriate for the following situations. Choose your answer inside the box.

FROZEN FORMAL CONSULTATIVE CASUAL INTIMATE

1.

Talking to a counsellor or psychiatrist

2.

Having a one-on-one conversation with a loved one

3.

Talking and laughing about memorable experiences

4.

Delivering a speech at the UN Summit

5.

Reading pledge of allegiance to the flag

Directions: Multiple Choice. Choose the best answer for each question. Write the letter of your answer on a separate sheet.

1. What do you think does the speaker mean when he/she says, “Can you open the door?”
 - a. The speaker wants to know if I have the ability to open the door.
 - b. The speaker is requesting me to open the door.
 - c. The speaker is trying to call my attention .
 - d. The speaker is asking me a question.

2. In which of the following statements is the speaker making a commitment?
 - a. “I am in love and I so happy.”
 - b. “I promise to love you for better and for worse.”
 - c. “I will check the email every day.”
 - d. “Thank you for giving me your quality time.”

3. Consider the utterance “ I haven’t eaten in days.” What does the speaker want to convey if the he/she is a beggar covered by soot and grimes.
 - a. telling that he/she is losing weight
 - b. requesting for food
 - c. reporting that he has eaten
 - d. showing his body

4. As the president of the Republic, I put the country under the state of emergency. What statement is this?
 - a. request
 - b. apology
 - c. decree
 - d. promise

5. Filipinos are the happiest people in the world. What statement is this?
 - a. request
 - b. claim
 - c. report
 - d. promise

MODULE 5

What I Need to Know

This module was designed and written with you in mind. It is here to help you understand the types of speech context. The scope of this module permits it to be used in many different learning situations. The language used recognizes the diverse vocabulary level of students. The lessons are arranged to follow the standard sequence of the course. But the order in which you read them can be changed to correspond with the textbook you are now using.

After going through this module, you are expected to:

After going through this module, you are expected to:

1. identifies the various types of speech context
2. recognizes that communicative competence requires understanding of speech context
3. exhibits appropriate verbal and nonverbal behavior in a given speech context

Lesson

5

Types of Speech Contexts

Do you know the people that you communicate with? Maybe you would agree that we change the way that we communicate depending on the persons that we are talking to. The way that you push your friend when you laugh out loud with his joke is different with the way that you react on your parents' or teacher's joke. Have you caught yourself smiling alone when you remember how your crush talked to you while you stare to him or her? How about the way that you almost shout to your friends while talking about your favorite basketball team or KPOP group, though you are just few inches away from one another?

What is It

Let the student reflect or share the most recent unforgettable chat that he/she had.

How does it affect him/ her?

Encourage the learner to tell the story in different creative ways such as reenactment and take a video of it.

of ideas.

How do you often start a conversation? What are the topics that you often want to talk about?

It's time for you to start conversation with the people that you wish to talk to. Draw the people that you want to communicate with then write the dialog inside the speech balloon. The number of people for each box is indicated below.

You and your best friend

You and your 3 classmates

Your 5 relatives

Your 3 male neighbors

Six Communication Context

Context is made up of the parts of communication that influence the meaning of a message. Context has an influence on the communication process. Contexts can overlap, creating an even more dynamic process. You have been communicating in many contexts across your lifetime, and you'll be able to apply what you've learned from experiences in multiple contexts to business communication.

Intrapersonal Communication

Intrapersonal communication involves one person; it is often called "self-talk" (Wood, 1997). Donna Vocate's (1994) book on this topic explains how, as you use language to reflect on your own experiences, you talk yourself through situations. Your intrapersonal communication can be positive or negative, and directly influences how you perceive and react to situations and communication with others. For example, before a big presentation, you may give yourself a pep talk to calm feelings of anxiety and give yourself a boost of confidence.

What you perceive in communication with others is also influenced by your culture, native language, and your world view. As the German philosopher Jürgen Habermas said, "Every process of reaching understanding takes place against the background of a culturally ingrained pre-understanding" (Habermas, 1984).

Interpersonal Communication

The second major context within the field of communication is interpersonal communication which normally involves two people, and can range from intimate and very personal to formal and impersonal. A conversation over coffee with a colleague about a project you're working on would be a form of interpersonal communication.

Group Communication

"Group communication is a dynamic process where a small number of people engage in a conversation" (McLean, 2005). Group communication is generally defined as involving three to eight people. The larger the group, the more likely it is to break down into smaller groups.

When engaging with groups, you can observe factors like age, education, sex, and location to learn more about general preferences as well as dislikes. You may find several groups within the larger audience, such as specific areas of education, and use this knowledge to increase your effectiveness as a business communicator.

Public Communication

In public communication, one person speaks to a group of people; the same is true of public written communication, where one person writes a message to be read by a small or large group. The speaker or writer may ask questions, and engage the audience in a discussion (in writing, examples are an email discussion or a point-counter-point series of letters to the editor), but the dynamics of the conversation are distinct from group communication, where different rules apply.

Mass Communication

Through mass communication, you send a message to as many people as possible. Mass communication involves sending a single message to a group. It allows you to communicate your message to a large number of people. Something to consider, however, is that you may be limited in your ability to tailor your message to specific audiences, groups, or individuals when using mass communication. As a business communicator, you can use multimedia as a visual aid or reference common programs, films, or other images that your audience finds familiar yet engaging. By choosing messages or references that many audience members will recognize or can identify with, you can develop common ground and increase the appeal of your message.

What is speech context examples?

Speech context is the way that people use to communicate and transmit message orally or verbally. It can be interpersonal where you can talk with the other people. Intrapersonal where you can talk to yourself especially when thinking and making decisions.

Types of Speech Context

- Intrapersonal Interpersonal.
- Intrapersonal This refers to communication that centers in one person where the speaker acts both as the sender and the receiver of message.
- Dyad Communication Small Group Public Mass Communication.

What is public speech context?

Public speaking is the process of communicating information to an audience. It is usually done before a large audience, like in school, the workplace and even in our personal lives. The benefits of knowing how to communicate to an audience include sharpening critical thinking and verbal/non-verbal communication skills.

Why is context important?

Context is importance because it helps you connect and create a relationship with the reader. It helps you communicate your point of view clearly making it easier to understand. It allows you and others to be more creative.

What is the importance of speech context?

Context is critical, because it tells you, the receiver, what importance to place on something, what assumptions to draw (or not) about what is being communicated, and most importantly, it puts meaning into the message.

What is concept of context?

Simply, context means circumstances forming a background of an event, idea or statement, in such a way as to enable readers to understand the narrative or a literary piece. It is necessary in writing to provide information, new concepts, and words to develop thoughts. This piece of information is called context.

What is context in public speaking?

Situational context refers to the reason why you're speaking. Think of situational context as the event itself. Environmental context refers to the physical space and time in which you speak. Think of environmental context as the time and venue of the event.

What is the meaning of context in communication?

Context refers to the setting in which communication takes place.

The context helps establish meaning and can influence what is said and how it is said. There are at least four aspects in regards to this idea: physical, cultural, social-psychological, and temporal (DeVito, 2005).

What is dyadic communication?

Dyadic communication means the interrelationship between the two, but in practice, this relationship refers to dialogic relations or face-to-face verbal communication between two persons involving their mutual ideas, thoughts, behavior, ideals, liking and disliking, and all the queries and answers concerning life and

What's More

Activity 1

Let's Reflect!

At this point, let us strengthen your intrapersonal communication.

Talking to ourselves is actually a normal thing, though some people may think it's weird (of course when you do it in public place). It is healthy to talk ourselves so that we can reflect on the things that we are doing everyday, when we make decisions, and when we plan for our future.

On the first box below, draw something that represent yourself and write the characteristics that you have. I know you have a lot of skills that you have shown to others, while some were kept to yourself.

On the second box, draw something that represent how other people see you as a person. We know that there are lot of things that we are not aware of, but other people see on us. It's good that we open our mind with what other persons' perception.

How do I see myself?	How do others see me?
---	---

Activity 2

Answer the questions below using what you have learned from The Various Types of Speech Context.
1. Why is it important to do intrapersonal communication?
2. Which among the different types of interpersonal communication do you do most often? Why?
3. Among the different types of speech contexts, which one do you think is the hardest? Why?

4. In your own opinion, are there some rules that people have to observe when they are talking to close friends or family members? Enumerate your answers.
5. Have you experienced doing public communication? If yes, what are the tips that you would like to share for those who will try the same. If no, are there things that stop you in doing so? How can you overcome it?

What I Can Do

Activity 1

Now it's time to show your creativity!

Create a poster showing the value of each speech context. You may work on traditional poster with clean white paper and art materials or you may also use electronic or digital materials such as in adobe photoshop, kotobee, paint, etc.

Take note of the criteria:

POSTER RUBRIC

Relevance to the topic	30%
Layout and design	40%
Originality	10%
Creativity	20%
Total	100%

Activity 2

Directions: Write intrapersonal or interpersonal before each sentence.

What activity requires interpersonal skill? Intrapersonal skill?

- _____ 1. Guidance counselor and student in a counselling session.
- _____ 2. A poet writing a poem
- _____ 3. A pianist trying to find the right keys for a song
- _____ 4. Employee presenting a new logo design in a corporate meeting
- _____ 5. Basketball coach signaling to the players
- _____ 6. A boy making his friends laugh
- _____ 7. A painter choosing which color to use on his canvass
- _____ 8. A journalist who wrote his opinion about COVID 19
- _____ 9. A small talk as your family plans for donating food to the front liners
- _____ 10. Your neighbor greeting you each morning.
- _____ 11. You translate into poetry the beautiful scene of nature.
- _____ 12. Your youngest sister analyzes her next move in playing chess.
- _____ 13. You share your innermost feeling to your best friend.
- _____ 14. Your sister always participates in various school competition
- _____ 15. You check your weight and writes a plan to stay fit this pandemic.
- _____ 16. You are writing a sorry-letter to your mother.
- _____ 17. You lead your group in doing the infographic in Oral Communication.
- _____ 18. You tell your problem to the youth leader of your church.
- _____ 19. You plan your next step in your college journey.
- _____ 20. You negotiate with your neighbors that hit your brother.

Activity 3

Directions: Read the article carefully and answer the question below.

Interpersonal vs. Intrapersonal Skills: Why You Need Both to Succeed

Human beings are inherently social creatures, thriving best when they can develop connections with other people that are both productive and fulfilling. So, how do you make that happen? You do it by developing both your interpersonal and intrapersonal skills.

Far too often, people focus on one set of these skills and neglect the others, which limits them and subverts their goals. When you develop strong interpersonal and intrapersonal skills alike, you gain the tools that will help you advance your career and find greater enjoyment in your life overall.

In a nutshell, your interpersonal skills help you collaborate and work with others, while your intrapersonal skills help you recognize your own strengths and weaknesses. Both are soft skills that contribute greatly to your personal growth, the ability to set and achieve your goals, and your overall success in both your personal and professional lives.

Good interpersonal skills boil down to your power to communicate effectively, work collaboratively, and create worthwhile relationships with friends, peers, and clients. Good interpersonal skills can, therefore, ease your way both personally and professionally. Without good interpersonal skills, you may find it difficult to fit in anywhere or ‘read a room,” and you can inadvertently damage your working environment or create friction that impairs your creativity, productivity, and value to your team or company.

Good interpersonal skills boil down to your power to communicate effectively, work collaboratively, and create worthwhile relationships. Professionals with strong interpersonal skills know how to work with other people. They’re conscious of everything from their body language to their tone of voice, not just the message they’re delivering through their words. Some of the top interpersonal skills you need in a collaborative environment include: empathy, inclusiveness, influence and responsiveness

Your intrapersonal skills are all about the internal dialogue you have with yourself. Good intrapersonal communication skills help you manage your emotions effectively, set goals, self-motivate, cope with distractions, strategize and adjust your approach to any given situation as needed. Some of the most important intrapersonal skills in a collaborative work environment include: productivity, resilience, and resourcefulness.

Intrapersonal skills are a requirement for consistently good interpersonal skills. After all, if you don’t understand your own needs, you can’t easily recognize the needs of others. If you haven’t taken care of yourself, it can be impossible to put the focus on others. Your intrapersonal skills, such as self-awareness, resilience, and positivity, allow you to better contribute to your team or company.

The confidence you build through intrapersonal communication conveys a sense to others that you have yourself together. People generally trust and enjoy working with other people that seem to be full of positivity and strength, so strong intrapersonal skills tend to inspire even stronger trust and collaboration.

Essentially, your intrapersonal skills involve self-awareness and an internal dialogue with yourself that informs your interpersonal skills and the interactions you have with those around you. Together, they form the emotional intelligence that can set you apart from everyone else in your field.

Question:

1. How can you develop your own intrapersonal and interpersonal skills?

Activity 4

Communication is the best tool that we could have in this world. Like what people say, you can resolve everything with proper communication. How can you use these speech contexts in your daily life and how can it help you or have an impact as you take your road to the future?

Answer the questions in essay form. (Use a separate sheet of paper)

ESSAY RUBRIC

Relevance to the topic	10%
Content	40%
Organization and format	10%
Word Choice, Sentence Variety and Structure	20%
Grammar and Mechanics	20%
Total	100%

Activity 5

This activity could help you to figure out the similarities and differences between intrapersonal and interpersonal communication. In the Venn diagram below, I want you to think of the characteristics that made intrapersonal and interpersonal similar and different.

Activity 6

It's your time to shine!

As we are about to finish this module, it's time for you to do something memorable and let us involve your family members.

Using your cellphone camera, take a picture that shows different types of speech contexts. Be creative! You may edit the picture to have different backgrounds or you may insert your friend in making a public communication and others. Make a D.I. Y photo album using recyclable materials. Explore and enjoy! I know you can do a lot with this one.

<https://www.realme.com/in/support/kw/doc/2070743>

MODULE 6

What I Need to Know

This module was designed and written with you in mind. It is here to help you understand the Different Types of Speech Style. The scope of this module permits it to be used in many different learning situations. The language used recognizes the diverse vocabulary level of students. The lessons are arranged to follow the standard sequence of the course. But the order in which you read them can be changed to correspond with the textbook you are now using.

After going through this module, you are expected to:

1. distinguish types of speech style
2. Identify social situations in which each speech style is appropriate to use
3. observe the appropriate language forms in using a particular speech style

Lesson

6

Learning the Types of Speech Style

SPEECH STYLES are patterns of speaking characterized by distinctive pronunciation, vocabulary, intent, participants, and grammatical structures.

Similarly, what is speech style Brainly? Speech Style. According to Martin Joos (1976-156), it concerns with the form of language which the speaker uses, and of which also characterized by the degree of formality of the discourse. What are the functions of communication? To control / regulate. To socialize.

Beside above, what is the purpose of speech style?

The purpose of the different types of speech is to help people know the specific approach they should use in every situation, person and place. Knowing these things can help one prevent misunderstandings and arguments from happening because if they don't watch what they say, they would look disrespectful in front of others.

What are 3 types of speeches?

There are three main types of speeches, but what kind a speaker delivers depends upon the speaker's objective. The three main types of speeches are the informative, the persuasive, and the special occasion.

What is It

Activity 1

Directions: Using a Venn diagram, differentiate the Types of Speech Context.

2.

Activity 2

Directions: Create a short dialogue from the following pictures below. Write your answer on the space provided.

1.

Judge:

Groom:

Bride:

Judge:

2.

Business Partner 1:

Business Partner 2:

Business Partner 1:

Business Partner 2:

3.

Lady 1:

Lady 2:

Lady 1:

Lady 2:

4.

Boy:

Girl:

Boy:

Girl:

1. FROZEN STYLE

It is the most formal communicative style that is usually used during respectful events and ceremonies. It also used when one shows hesitation, disinterest or prejudice. Frozen speech is used generally in a very formal setting, does not require any feedback from the audience, most formal communicative style for respectful situations.

Pledges, anthems, marriage ceremonies, laws, national pledge, anthem, school creeds, marriage ceremonies, speech for a state ceremony language is comparatively rigid and has a set, agreed upon vocabulary that is well documented; is often of a standard variety.

2. FORMAL STYLE

71

Formal speeches are straightforward speeches. In this speech style, the speaker avoids using slang terminologies, what the speaker says is something that has been prepared beforehand, its complex sentence and noun phrases are well structured, logically sequenced and strongly coherent.

EXAMPLES:

Announcements, SONA, welcome addresses, meetings, speeches, school lessons, court, a corporate meeting, at a swearing in ceremony, in an interview or in a classroom

3. CONSULTATIVE STYLE

<https://www.gponline.com/consultation-skills-consulting-bereaved-patient/article/1058327>

Used in semi-formal communication

Happens in two-way participation

Most operational among other styles

Speaker does not usually plan what he wants to say

Sentences end to be shorter and spontaneous

This is used in semi-formal communication, sentences end to be shorter and spontaneous, the speaker does not usually plan what he/she wants to say, most operational among others.

EXAMPLES:

regular classroom discussions, doctor-patient, regular conversation at schools, companies, group discussion, teacher-student, doctor-patient, expert-apprentice

4. CASUAL STYLE

<https://blog.hubspot.com/sales/small-talk-guide>

Language used between friends

Often very relaxed and focused on just getting the information out

Slangs are quite often used in these instances

This style is used in informal situations and language

Relationship between speaker and hearer is closed.

This is an informal communication between groups and peers. Casual style is used in conversation between friends and insiders who have something to share and have shared background information but don't have close relations.

EXAMPLES:

phone calls, everyday conversation with friends, chats, casual conversations with friends, family members, chats, phone calls and messages

5. INTIMATE STYLE

<https://www.kylebenson.net/intimate-conversation/>

Completely private language used within family of very close friends or group
 Uses personal language codes
 Grammar is unnecessary
 Does not need complete language
 Certain terms of endearment, slangs or expressions whose meaning is shared with a small subset of persons to person

For very close relationships like couples, family, and best friends. It is also used for self-addressed questions or self-talk, etc. Intimate speech is used in conversation between people who are very close and know each other quite well because they have the maximum of shared background information.

EXAMPLES:

Couple talking about their future plans, family sharing ideas, very close

What's More

Activity 1

Directions: Read the following scenario then choose the appropriate Type of Speech Style by putting check (✓) inside the box.

	SCENARIO	CASUAL	INTIMATE	FORMAL	CONSULTATIVE	FROZEN
1	"I've been running a fever for days now and I feel weak. My muscles also ache. What shall I do Dr. Smith?"
2	Having the state of the nation address (SONA) at the palace
3	A group chat
4	"Why do you want to work in our company?"
5	"Miss, do you think this size is small for a five-year-old girl?”

6	Delivering an oratorical speech
7	A couple planning about their wedding
8	Reading pledge of allegiance to the flag
9	A dance group planning their dance steps
10	Parents reprimanding their children

Activity 2

Directions: Answer the following questions being asked in the graphic organizer below.

Topic/Lesson: _____

Things I Learned	Things I Found Interesting	Question/s I Have

Activity 1

Directions: Share an experience that you encountered and classify the Speech Style you used during that time.

SCENARIO	SPEECH STYLE

Activity 2

Directions: Multiple Choice. Choose the best statement based on the situation. Write the letter of your answer on a separate sheet.

____ 1. Company director to employee

- A. I need to talk to you.
- B. Ms. Brown, could you come here for a moment?
- C. Hey, get over here. Jane,

____ 2. One colleague to another

- A. Excuse me, do you think you could possibly give me a hand?
- B. Give me a hand.
- C. Excuse me, could you give me a hand?

____ 3. Stranger to a man in the street

- A. Could you tell me the time, please?
- B. The time, please.
- C. Hello there, how are you?

____ 4. Waiter to customer

- A. What do you want?
- B. What would you like today?
- C. Do you think you could possibly tell me what you would like to eat today?

____ 5. Employee to department manager

- A. Mr. Brown, could I have a word with you this afternoon?
- B. Frank, I need to talk to you.
- C. Mr. Brown, do you think it would be possible for me to speak with you this afternoon?

Activity 3

Directions: Create a photo collage of different Types of Speech Style. You can cut out pictures from old newspaper, magazine, brochure, etc.

Rubric for Photo Collage

Attention to the theme	40%
Creativity	30%
Quality of Construction	20%
Neatness	10%
TOTAL	100%

MODULE 7

What I Need to Know

This module was designed and written with you in mind. It is here to help you understand how to respond appropriately and effectively to a speech act. The scope of this module permits it to be used in many different learning situations. The language used recognizes the diverse vocabulary level of students. The lessons are arranged to follow the standard sequence of the course. But the order in which you read them can be changed to correspond with the textbook you are now using.

After going through this module, you are expected to:

1. define speech acts
2. distinguish types of speech acts
3. demonstrate effective use of communicative strategy in a variety of speech situations
4. apply learning and thinking skills in understanding the types of speech acts
5. respond appropriately and effectively to a speech act
6. reflect on your learning on the types of speech acts

Lesson

7

Speech Act

SPEECH ACT THEORY

Speech act theory is a theory of language that says that the speaker's utterances (the things the speaker says) aren't just about words and their dictionary definitions. The utterances can accomplish things and bring about various actions.

Speech act theory is a subfield of pragmatics that studies how words are used not only to present information but also to carry out actions.

The speech act theory was introduced by Oxford philosopher J.L. Austin in How to Do Things With Words and further developed by American philosopher J.R.

Searle. It considers the degree to which utterances are said to perform locutionary acts, illocutionary acts, and/or perlocutionary acts.

Many philosophers and linguists study speech act theory as a way to better understand human communication. "Part of the joy of doing speech act theory, from my strictly first-person point of view, is becoming more and more mindful of how many surprisingly different things we do when we talk to each other," (Kemmerling 2002).

What is It

This lesson provides information about locutionary, illocutionary and perlocutionary act. Mark each a check mark that falls under the each type of Speech Act.

LOCO ACTS

	locutionary	illocutionary	perlocutionary
1. social function
2. exact word of the speaker
3. effect of what is said to the person uttered to
4. Clyde left the room because of what his Mom told him.
5. Niana said," I am starving!"
6. Upon hearing what Nina said, her Mom prepares the most delicious lunch for the family

Directions: Write your exact utterances if you want to achieve the following situation through your language. Give your brief explanation.

	Exact Utterances (Words that you will say)	Brief Explanation
1. You want to praise your classmate's new hair cut.

2. You want to give your barangay the latest updates about COVID - 19.
3. You saw your classmates cheating.
4. You saw the school principal looking for your adviser.
5. You heard your parents talking about your dwindling finances Because of pandemic.

What is a Speech Act?

A speech act is an utterance that serves a function in communication. We perform speech acts when we offer an apology, greeting, request, complaint, invitation, compliment, or refusal. A speech act might contain just one word, as in "Sorry!" to perform an apology, or several words or sentences: "I'm sorry I forgot your birthday. I just let it slip my mind." Speech acts include real-life interactions and require not only knowledge of the language but also appropriate use of that language within a given culture.

Here are some examples of speech acts we use or hear every day:

Greeting: "Hi, Ana. How are things going?"

Request: "Could you pass me the mashed potatoes, please?"

Complaint: "I've already been waiting three weeks for the computer, and I was told it would be delivered within a week."

Invitation: "We're having some people over Saturday evening and wanted to know if you'd like to join us."

Compliment: "Hey, I really like your tie!"

Refusal: "Oh, I'd love to see that movie with you but this Friday just isn't going to work."

Types of Speech Act

Speech acts can be analysed on three levels:

1. A locutionary act, the performance of an utterance: the actual utterance and its ostensible meaning, comprising phonetic, phatic and rhetic acts corresponding to the verbal, syntactic and semantic aspects of any meaningful utterance;

Locutionary	This act happens with the utterance of a sound, a word, or even a phrase as a natural unit of speech. What is required for the utterance to be a locutionary act is that it has sense, and has the same meaning to both the speaker and the listener. Example: "What?" (when someone is surprised)
--------------------	--

2. an illocutionary act: the pragmatic 'illocutionary force' of the utterance, thus its intended significance as a socially valid verbal action (see below);

Illocutionary	It is not just saying something itself, but the act of saying something with the intention of: stating an opinion, confirming, or denying something, making a prediction, a promise, a request, issuing an order or a decision, giving an advice or permission. Examples:
----------------------	---

	“There’s too much homework in this subject.” (opinion) “I’ll do my homework later.” (promise) “Go do your homework!” (order)
3. and in certain cases a further perlocutionary act: its actual effect, such as persuading, convincing, scaring, enlightening, inspiring, or otherwise getting someone to do or realize something, whether intended or not (Austin 1962). Perlocutionary	This is seen when a particular effect is sought from either the speaker, the listener, or both. The response may not necessarily be physical or verbal and elicited by: Inspiring or insulting , Persuading or convincing , Deterring or scaring The aim of perlocutionary speech act is to change feelings, thoughts, or actions . Examples: 1. “I was born a Filipino, I will live a Filipino, I will die a Filipino!” (inspiring) . 2. “It is the bleak job situation that forces Filipinos to find jobs overseas.” (persuading) . 3. “Texting while driving kills – you, your loved ones, other people!” (deterring).

Speech Acts and Second Language

Speech acts are difficult to perform in a second language because learners may not know the idiomatic expressions or cultural norms in the second language or they may transfer their first language rules and conventions into the second language, assuming that such rules are universal. Because the natural tendency for language learners is to fall back on what they know to be appropriate in their first language, it is important that these learners understand exactly what they do in that first language in order to be able to recognize what is transferable to other languages. Something that works in English might not transfer in meaning when translated into the second language. For example, the following remark as uttered by a native English speaker could easily be misinterpreted by a native Chinese hearer:

Sarah: "I couldn't agree with you more. "

Cheng: "Hmmm...." (Thinking: "She couldn't agree with me? I thought she liked my idea!")

An example of potential misunderstanding for an American learner of Japanese would be what is said by a dinner guest in Japan to thank the host. For the invitation and the meal the guests may well apologize a number of times in addition to using an expression of gratitude (arigatou gosaimasu) -- for instance, for the intrusion into the private home (sumimasen ojama shimasu), the commotion that they are causing by getting up from the table (shitsurei shimasu), and also for the fact that they put their host out since they had to cook the meal, serve it, and will have to do the dishes once the guests have left (sumimasen). American guests might think this to be rude or inappropriate and choose to compliment the host on the wonderful food and festive atmosphere, or thank the host for inviting them, unaware of the social conventions involved in performing such a speech act in Japanese. Although such compliments or expression of thanks are also appropriate in Japanese, they are hardly enough for native speakers of Japanese -- not without a few apologies!

Types of Speech Acts

Speech acts are verbal actions that accomplish something: we greet, insult, compliment, plead, play, supply information, and get work done.

Types of Speech Acts
Representatives:	assertions, statements, claims, hypotheses, descriptions, suggestions.	It is a type of an illocutionary act in which the speaker expresses belief about the truth of a proposition.
Commissives:	promises, oaths, pledges, threats, vows.	It is an illocutionary act which commits the speaker to do something in the future.
Directives:	commands, requests, challenges, invitations, orders, summons, entreaties, dares.	It is an illocutionary act which the speaker tries to make the addressee perform an action .
Declarations:	blessings, firings, baptisms, arrests, marrying, juridial speech acts such as sentencings,	It is an illocutionary act which brings a change in the external situation.

	declaring a mistrial, declaring s.o.out of order, etc.
Expressives:	Speech acts that make assessments of psychological states or attitudes: greetings, apologies, congratulations, condolences, thanksgivings...	It is type of illocutionary act in which the speaker expressed his/her feelings or emotional reactions.

What's More

Activity 1

Directions: Analyze the tables. Read carefully the statement (first column), give the effect on its listener (second column) and explain your answer briefly (third column). Use separate sheet of paper.

Utterances Exact statement of the speaker	Effect What effect will each have on its listener (s)?	Explanation Why?
1. " Your country needs you in this time of COVID-19 pandemic."
2. "Congratulations! You are hired!
3. "Stop or I will call the police!"
4. "Please stay with me because I cannot live without you."
5. "I need more packs of rice and canned good for my children. This lockdown stops me from earning money."

Activity 2

Directions: Give a sample utterance for each speech act (use the one box on the left). Then, explain the possible effects of such utterance (use the three boxes on the right). Use separate sheet of paper.

1. complain
2. command
3. offer
4. report
5. promise

Activity 3

1. What is speech act?
2. Why is it important to know the illocutionary and perlocutionary force of the speech act?
3. In what way can speech act help for a successful and effective communication?
4. How can differences in culture and language affect the effective communication?
5. Give the details of the five types of speech acts.

<https://www.piqsels.com/en/public-domain-photo-zzaot>

Activity 4

Directions: Answer the question based on the role you can have in school.

As a Grade 11/12 student, how can you apply your knowledge in speech act to avoid misunderstanding with your classmates, friends, teachers and other school personnel? How can you communicate or respond effectively and appropriately?

1. You are the SSG President of SHS and you want to complain about the insufficient number of chairs.

2. You are the class secretary of your section and you want to discuss the strict rules of checking the attendance per subject.

3. You are mistaken as the student who cut the class in Oral Communication. This was reported by school guard.

4. You are the class president of an AM class and you notice that the PM class that uses your classroom has not been cleaning for almost a month.

Activity 5

Directions: Write at least three meaningful sentences under each category of Speech Acts

Categories	Sentences
1. Representatives	1. 2. 3.
2. Directives	1. 2. 3.
3. Expressives	1. 2. 3.
4. Commissives	1. 2. 3.
5. Declaratives	1. 2. 3.

Activity 6

Dialogue

Directions: Create appropriate dialogue based on each scenario presented.

Priest :

Mother:

Father:

Friend 1 :

Friend 2:

Niana :

Anna:

Niana:

Anna:

Mommy :

Son:

ASSESSMENT

I.

Directions: Choose the best answer from the box below. Use separate sheet of paper.

Who are the people that you often communicate with? Your friends? Loved one? Neighbors? or yourself? Yes, it is one of the decisions that we make every day – to choose who are the people that we will talk to.

Let us find out how are you going to categorize those people. Choose your answer from the word pool below .

1. What type of speech context refers to communication that requires you to deliver or send the message before or in front of a group?
2. It refers to communication that centers on one person where the speaker acts both as sender and receiver of message?
3. What type of speech context refers to communication that takes place through television, radio, newspaper, magazines, books, billboards, internet and other types of media?
4. What type of speech context refers to communication between and other person?
5. Which type of INTERPERSONAL context refers to communication that involves at least three but not more than twelve people engaging in a face-to-face interaction?

Public Communication

Interpersonal Communication

Intrapersonal Communication

Mass Communication

Dyad

Small Group

II.

Directions: Identify the Type of Speech Style appropriate for the following situations. Choose your answer inside the box.

FROZEN FORMAL CONSULTATIVE CASUAL INTIMATE

1.

Talking to a counsellor or psychiatrist

2.

Having a one-on-one conversation with a loved one

3.

Talking and laughing about memorable experiences

4.

Delivering a speech at the UN Summit

|

5.

Reading pledge of allegiance to the flag

III.

Directions: Multiple Choice. Choose the best answer for each question. Write the letter of your answer on a separate sheet.

1. What do you think does the speaker mean when he/she says, “Can you open the door?”
 - a. The speaker wants to know if I have the ability to open the door.
 - b. The speaker is requesting me to open the door.
 - c. The speaker is trying to call my attention .
 - d. The speaker is asking me a question.
2. In which of the following statements is the speaker making a commitment?
 - a. “I am in love and I so happy.”
 - b. “I promise to love you for better and for worse.”
 - c. “I will check the email every day.”
 - d. “Thank you for giving me your quality time.”
3. Consider the utterance “ I haven’t eaten in days.” What does the speaker want to convey if the he/she is a beggar covered by soot and grimes.
 - a. telling that he/she is losing weight
 - b. requesting for food
 - c. reporting that he has eaten
 - d. showing his body
4. As the president of the Republic, I put the country under the state of emergency. What statement is this?
 - a. request
 - b. apology
 - c. decree
 - d. promise
5. Filipinos are the happiest people in the world. What statement is this?
 - a. request
 - b. claim
 - c. report
 - d. promise

Answer Key

WHAT I KNOW

1. Public Communication
2. Intrapersonal Communication
3. Mass Communication
4. Dyad
5. Small group
1. CONSULTATIVE
2. INTIMATE
3. CASUAL
4. FORMAL
5. FROZEN
6. B
7. B
8. B
9. C
10. B

MODULE 5

- ACTIVITY 2
1. Intrapersonal
 2. Intrapersonal
 3. Intrapersonal
 4. Intrapersonal
 5. Intrapersonal
 6. Intrapersonal
 7. Intrapersonal
 8. Intrapersonal
 9. Intrapersonal
 10. Intrapersonal
 11. Intrapersonal
 12. Intrapersonal
 13. Intrapersonal
 14. Intrapersonal
 15. Intrapersonal
 16. Intrapersonal
 17. Intrapersonal
 18. Intrapersonal
 19. Intrapersonal
 20. Intrapersonal

MODULE 6

ACTIVITY 1

1. CONSULTATIVE
2. FORMAL
3. CASUAL
4. FORMAL
5. CONSULTATIVE
6. FORMAL
7. INTIMATE
8. FROZEN
9. CASUAL
10. INTIMATE

ACTIVITY 2

- 6. B
- 7. C
- 8. A
- 9. B
- 10. C

MODULE 7

ANSWERS VARY

ASSESSMENT

- 11. Public
Communication
- 12. Intrapersonal
Communication
- 13. Mass
Communication
- 14. Dyad
- 15. Small group

- 11. CONSULTATIVE
- 12. INTIMATE
- 13. CASUAL
- 14. FORMAL
- 15. FROZEN

- 16. B
- 17. B
- 18. B
- 19. C
- 20. B

References

Module 5

Philippe John Fresnillo Sipacio and Anne Richie Garcia Balgos. (2016). Oral Communication in Context. In p. J. Balgos, Oral Communication in Context (pp. 58-59). Queazon City: C&E Publishing, Inc. 2016.

<https://findanyanswer.com/what-is-speech-context-examples>

<https://matterapp.com/blog/interpersonal-vs-intrapersonal-skills-why-you-need-both-to-succeed>

Module 6

Flores, R.2016, Oral Communication in Context, Rex Bookstore, Inc

<https://www.slideshare.net/GodulaCenit/oral-communication-grade-11-various-speech-situations>

<https://elcomblus.com/speech-styles-definition-types-and-examples/>

<https://steemit.com/ulog/@zam398/ulog-14-detailed-lesson-plan-and-instructional-materials>

Module 7

Syjueco, M.(2016). Oral Communication in Context. DIWA Learning Systems Inc.

Nordquist, Richard. (2020, February 11). Speech Act Theory. Retrieved from <https://www.thoughtco.com/speech-act-theory-1691986>

The Center for Advanced Research on Language Acquisition (CARLA)
<https://carla.umn.edu/>

For inquiries or feedback, please write or call:

Department of Education – Schools Division Office Navotas
Learning Resource Management Section

Bagumbayan Elementary School Compound
M, Naval St., Sipac Almacen, Navotas City

Telefax: 02-8332-77-64
Email Address: navotas.city@deped.gov.ph